music director's message

Welcome to another Esprit season. It's a pleasure to include in this year's programming top Canadian soloists specializing in the music of today. We continue to focus on Canadian composition, yet are maintaining a strong international dimension. Esprit's diversity and virtuosity as an ensemble will be reflected in programming ranging from Broadway tunes to the most complex and sophisticated "leading edge" pieces.

Our concerts include works that cross cultural, interdisciplinary and technological boundaries. We're extending our education programmes and are pleased to continue our association with CBC Stereo and CBC Records and to initiate a new relationship with the Glenn Gould Studio. Rhombus Media also continues to include Esprit in its excellent film projects. We are also developing a major new dance collaboration with Menaka Thakkar & Company.

I invite you to share the excitement all of us associated with Esprit feel in presenting the orchestra's twelfth season.

my montreal includes toronto (Vivier and beyond)

Along the Windsor/Quebec City Corridor can be found, among other things, musical traces of Bali, Beethoven, the cosmos and eternity.

This programme creates a rich fabric woven from vibrant musical threads created by some of the finest Montreal and Toronto composers. A particular focus will be given to Claude Vivier's music. The world premieres of pieces by Norma Beecroft and John Oswald will combine electro-acoustic technology with orchestra.

Panettone e spumante will be served in the lobby at a post-concert Christmas party for our audience and special guests.

But these are not the only Italian ingredients giving flavour to the event.

The music of the great Italian composer Luciano Berio, featuring folksong themes from Sicily, will complement the world premiere of a work by Italian-Canadian John Rea as well as music by Salvatore Sciarrino. Sciarrino's rendition of the popular tune Brazil serves as the icing on Esprit's party cake.

superstrings IV

Sensuous, resonant, dynamic vibrations form the essence of an experience immersing our listeners in the universal continuity of sonic energy. CBC's Glenn Gould Studio will serve as the superb acoustic space enhancing the sonorities.

This concert is the fourth in Esprit's ongoing series of programmes featuring the orchestra's excellent string section performing outstanding string music from around the world. In this case, our programming reflects current global trends in music as dealt with by master composers.
